Waking Up the Wrong Passenger.

A story is in circulation among the political quidnuncs of our city which is too good to be hid under a bushel. It relates to the recent appointment of Postmaster at Watertown. It seems that, for reasons not yet made public, the Department at Washington had decided upon removing Gen. PORTER, who, in virtue of being a Pennsylvania Democrat, was appointed to that office a year ago, in place of Mr. M. B. WILLIAMS, rather the best Postmaster that Watertown has had. Accordingly, the worthy P. M. of Milwaukee was charged with the responsible duty of selecting a successor to Gen. PORTER. The gallant Colonel proceeded to Watertown on this errand a few days since, encountered his old friend, PATRICK ROGAN, who had served in the Legislature with him and voted for his famous Buchanan resolutions, and fixed upon him, as the right man for the place. Just before starting homeward, he inquired of Gen. C., or some other active Democrat in Watertown, what Mr. ROGAN's first name was. "Why PATRICK, of course," was the reply; so PATRICK ROGAN was duly certified to Washington as the proper person for the P. M. of Watertown and his name sent in to the Senate. On Wednesday last we announced this appointment in the SIXTY-FIVE, and spoke of it as "a Douglas and Watertown triumph." Immediately, as the sage of Mukwonago has it, there was "immediately the entire land." Our City P. M. began to suspect that he had "waked up the wrong passenger." Come to think, it was PERKINS, not PATRICK ROGAN, who was in the Legislature with him and who stood up so stoutly for BUCHANAN and the National Democratic.

Worse than all, the frightful rumor got abroad that PATRICK ROGAN voted, in 1856, for FERNONT and DAYTON, the "sectional," Republican nominees! What was to be done? Nothing, but to send word, post, or telegraph home, to Washington, to hang up PATRICK in the Senate, until PERKINS could be nominated in his stead, and so, for the present, the matter rests.

But the President himself, it appears, like his devoted friend, our City Postmaster, also "waked up the wrong passenger." His latest appointment of U. S. Marshal for Wisconsin has involved him in a peck of trouble. The rumor goes that Marshal LEWIS is, or is to be rejected, and our late Secretary of State, Col. D. W. Jones, appointed in his stead. Matters, indeed, have come to such a pass that Judge MILLS, who started for Washington last week, is look'd up to by "the faithful," i. e. all good and true Pennsylvania Democrats, as the only man who can bring things to rights and enlighten the President as to Federal appointments in Wisconsin. But whether the Judge goes in the interest of PERKINS or PATRICK ROGAN, is more than we know. Time must tell.

The American Cyclopaedia.

We are indebted to STRICKLAND & CO. for the eighth volume of this admirable work. As the title page sets forth, it is "a popular dictionary of general knowledge," edited with judgment and ability by GEORGE RITTY and CHARLES A. DANA, two of the most accomplished and industrious gentlemen connected with the literary profession in America. It is published by the APPLEGTONS, 326 and 344 Broadway, New York, in a style befitting the merits of the work.

The present volume opens with an account of the FUGGER family, wealthy German merchants, and closes with a brief biography of the notorious Austrian General HAYNAC, who, on his visit to BARCLAY's brewery in London, in 1850, was assailed by the draymen of that establishment, for alleged ill-treatment of female prisoners who had fallen into his hands, and narrowly escaped with his life. There are about 1,600 different articles in the volume, all carefully and succinctly treating the merits of the work.

When this decision was announced it was hailed by the people of Wisconsin—aye, by the friends of Freedom everywhere—as shipwrecked mariners half the approaching sail that is to rescue them from starvation and death, and to restore them to safety and home.

The Republican party of the State, which then lay exiled in rudimentary embryo, were by it quickened into life, and received from its invigorizing influence, that strength in numbers and morale, which augmented, dating from that day, until it was enabled to carry the State; and even so late as last Spring, Judge BYRD PAINE was most triumphantly elected to the Supreme Bench, upon the ground that he especially represented the principles of that decision.

And we have selected the above, at random, to show the variety of the contents of the volume, than any other purpose.

There is a vast fund of carefully selected and well-arranged information in that Cyclopaedia, which can nowhere else be found in such condensed and convenient shape. The work is an ornament to American literature, and a valuable addition to every public and private library.

THE CANADIAN NEGRO HOAX.—The Chatlam (C. W.) plausibly disposes of the record of the Detroit Free Press, concerning the alleged negro disturbances in Canada, as follows:

"Some malicious libel, a practical joke of fact, a more villainous artifice we never saw in print. This may be somewhat explained by stating that just now is a pretty right place, and its organs, of which the Chatlam is one, to have a field to turn the popular tide from Abolition into Secession."

This is to say, that the falsehoods of the Free Press, and with our remarks to be quoted by the Chatlam, we were the authors called in to make up the spurious news, and to give it a place in their organ, to spike the report of the Chatlam.
